

Television Packaging

A Many Splintered Thing

When the BBC canceled A Many Splintered Thing after six episodes, Chrysalis approached Quinn Media Management to explore new opportunities for the smart single-camera comedy. We developed a strategy to expose the show to select players in the Los Angeles production community, and arranged pitch meetings. The show was sold to Paramount, which added an A+ showrunner / executive producer, and made a deal at Showtime.